Translation Studies is a less cultivated genre in the field of literature, though translation of texts is a very common phenomenon in cosmopolitan world of cross-cultural connection. However, Translation is not mere rendering of a text from one language to another. The rendition of feelings, emotions and objectives are not only important but also difficult tasks. The present seminar focuses on different aspects of literary translations from an academic angle. Significance of the seminar lies here that Translation Studies is included in the CBCS syllabus. The Seminar intends to introduce the students on the subject and enrich them with the understanding of the process from experts in the field. YouTubelink of the webinar :
